2026 Exchange Program Application Guidelines

For more details on the application, please contact the person in charge at your university.

Requirements

- Applicants must be full-time students at a university that has a student exchange agreement with Kyoai Gakuen University (hereafter referred to as “KGU”) and must maintain that status during their study abroad period.
- Applicants who have Japanese language proficiency at JLPT N2 level or higher, or an equivalent level.
 Acceptance will be evaluated based on the results of the designated online Japanese language test, the online interview, and the documents submitted.*
- Applicants should demonstrate strong academic performance, good character, and sound physical and mental health.
- Applicants must submit all required documents by the specified deadline.
- Applicants must agree to follow KGU’s rules and regulations, complete the required coursework, and actively participate in university activities.
- Applicants are expected to contribute to international exchange activities both on campus and within the local community.
- Applicants must follow the dormitory rules and regulations and cooperate with other residents.
Students who do not follow the rules may have their scholarship reduced or suspended, or may be dismissed from the program.*

Duration

From April 2026 to February of the following year

Curriculum

- 11 courses each in the first and second semester
 Courses include a required Japanese language class, and elective courses designated by KGU*
- Students are also expected to take part in designated events, such as the welcome party, Japanese speech contest, and other cultural activities.

Course sample

Fees

1. Tuition and dormitory fees are waived.
2. Students are required to pay the cost of the designated student insurance, “GAKKENSAN” (Student Education and Research Accident Insurance), 12,840 yen.
3. Students are required to pay for Japanese National Health Insurance (approximately 2,000 yen per month), as enrollment and payment are mandatory for residents living in Japan
4. Students are responsible for covering personal living expenses. (including food, entertainment, and textbooks)
5. KGU will arrange and cover the cost of transportation from the airport to the dormitory upon arrival. (The transportation to the airport upon return is to be arranged and paid for by the student.)

Scholarship

- 70,000 yen will be provided by KGU as support for round-trip ticket expenses.
The amount will be reduced by the cost mentioned in point 1, and the remaining amount will be given upon arrival.*
- A monthly allowance of 5000 yen will be provided for educational support by KGU from April to January of the following year.

Housing

Exchange students live in the international dormitory, which is arranged in a shared house style. All residents are expected to cooperate in cleaning rooms and shared facilities, and in managing garbage disposal. The dormitory is shared by exchange students from our partner universities around the world and Japanese student resident assistants who help manage dorm life.

Students Voice

Studying in Japan was amazing. The university offered many interesting courses and a variety of clubs to join. The students living with us were so friendly that it felt like having friends from the start.

The dorm was clean and fully equipped. everyone had their own room, but we often ate together or played games in the common area.

Studying at Kyoai was one of the most wonderful experiences of my life!
